A SPEECH BY HILL.

He Addresses the Democracy of Philadelphia.

HIS REMARKS AIMED AT BLAINE

The Democratic Party Pledged to Revenue Reform, Even in Pennsylvania—The Negro in Possession of His Rights.

PHILADELPHIA Oct. 29—At a democratic demonstration at the Academy of Music this evening a special feature was an address by Gov Hill, of New York In welcoming the distinguished visitor the large audience rose and cheered wildly for several minutes, and the entire speech was interspersed with, and punctuated by enthusiastic demonstrations of approval.

After thanking the meeting for the cordiality of the reception given him, which he construed as a compliment, not to himself personally, but to the gallant democracy of the Empire state Gov Hill said that Pennsylvania and New York had stood shoulder to shoulder in our early colonial history in the war of the revolution, and had alike contributed men and money during the rebellion to save the Union Four years ago both states alike were scenes of a peaceful political revolution which resulted in the ascendency of the democratic party Subsequently Gov Grover Cleveland had been elected president and the speaker had been elected to the governorship of New York.

GLOOMY PREDICTIONS DISPROVED

He continued "I come here to-night to ask you to follow the example of New York and elect your lieutenant-governor to the governorship of your state That will be true civil service reform There are many reasons why he should be elected but there is one which is sufficient for me—he is a true democrat. You ask me upon this occasion to speak to you of the issues of the campaign What is left to be said when you have heard Daniel Dougherty and S J Randall I have but a few suggestions to make You have been told of the predictions of our opponents made two years ago I venture the statement that these predictions have come to naught. They told us that the democratic party could not be trusted to control the government of this country A year and a half of successful administration has answered and refuted that statement They told us that the democratic party if it should attain power would assume the rebel debt That was the old scare of two years ago Not a single dollar of the Confederate debt has been assumed or proposed to be assumed by anybody They told the people to frighten them that the government debt would be repudiated Not a dollar has been repudiated Every dollar of the national indebtedness that has become due has been promptly met and paid They told us the interests of the soldiers in the matter of pensions would be unsafe The interests of pensioners have never been so well taken care of as they have been by the present administration They told us that the industries of our country would be ruined They have not been ruined, but we see evidences on every side of increased prosperity It is a fact to-day that times are slowly, surely getting better, a tribute to the wisdom of the democratic administration'

AN ALLUSION TO BLAINE.

Continuing, Hill said "Some allusion has been made to the fact of the visit to your state of a distinguished gentleman who hails from Maine Having succeeded in saving his own state after a most terrible effort he comes to help the republicans of Pennsylvania save this close state There is not in my mind better evidence that the state is not close but that it is surely going for the democratic party This distinguished gentleman whose words are entitled upon all occasions to careful consideration, stated before an audience in Philadelphia that the country was in danger because of the democratic policy He spoke of the magnificent times which we had under republican rule. You would imagine from his statement that a few years ago all the workingmen were obtaining better wages than now You would imagine that there were no hard times a few years ago under republican administration Why, he forgets but we recollect that the last great panic in this country occurred under a republican administration in 1873, when there was a republican president a republican senate and a republican house of representatives, and at the very time that James G Blaine was speaker of the house of representatives Neither he nor his party were able to give the country good and prosperous times although they shaped all the legislation of the country at that period

THE REPUBLICAN SENATE

I say that a year and a half of successful administration has demonstrated the wisdom of the people of this country in changing the administration of public affairs and putting the democracy in power We have not been able to accomplish all that we anticipated but you must bear in mind this fact We have been thwarted by the republican senate of the United States. You must bear in mind that there was little use for the democratic party in the house of representatives to frame measures which were only to be pigeon holed by the republican senate The people of this country have no right to hold us entirely responsible for what has been done or omitted to be done If they will in the few states in which elections are now to take place so vote as to give us control of all departments of the government, then we can properly be held to responsibility, and we will accept that responsibility

The same gentleman who spoke in the city of Philadelphia—and he makes the same speeches everywhere on the stump—warned the country of a great and impending danger There always seems to be great danger to the country when Mr Blaine takes the stump There is no crisis to be anticipated such as Blaine imagines and predicts

THE TARIFF QUESTION

"I understood Mr Blaine to say that he opposed any interference with reference to the tariff. I understood him to say that he did not wish the subject touched in any manner, and the great issue that he presented to the people of Pennsylvania was that there must be no legislation upon this subject. I am not going to discuss to-night this tariff question It is a subject about which in its details there may be differences but in the main there can be none I simply propose to call attention to evidence that Mr Blaine is not sincere when he tells you no legislation is necessary whatever I say that when he makes that statement to the people of Pennsylvania he does not stand upon the platform of his party Public sentiment was aroused upon this subject in 1881 and in the platform adopted by their own convention the republican party made use of these words "The republican party pledges itself to correct the inequalities of the tariff and to reduce the surplus." Yet Mr Blaine comes now before the people of this tariff state as it is supposed to be and declares that he opposes all legislation whatever He wants the present law maintained [illegible] inequalities and all As early as November, 1883, he wrote a letter to Charles F Smith an editor of one of your papers in which speaking on this subject he said "This brings with it the necessity of reducing the national revenue The present system of taxation is yielding more than $100 000 000 beyond the amount required for the ordinary expenses of the government Its reduction will soon become an imperative duty" This was his position taken deliberately in 1883 and this is one of the letters that was not burned [Great merriment] We are willing to stand upon that same position We simply stand in favor of revenue reform. We have proposed nothing else and that reform will not interfere with the wages of a single laboring man On the contrary it will preserve and protect them It will not destroy a single industry in this country but will preserve and build up all of them

THE NEGRO.

Blaine has also great sympathy for the colored people of the South He tells us what I do not believe to be true and what no investigation had within the past two or three years has proved to be true—namely, that the colored people of the South are deprived of their political rights What peculiar information has he to which the country has no access? I say there has been no complaint from the colored man himself I say there has not been a petition of any sort of importance presented upon that subject in the last two or three years in congress from a single republican representative of the South. They have representatives in the congress of the United States Pray tell us when the colored people of the South through their representatives, set up any such claim that they have not enjoyed their political rights during the past three or four years I limit it to that time because that is the period to which he has alluded Grover Cleveland [illegible] I point you to the fact that he appointed from our own state an intelligent colored man to a position in Washington and that the colored man was rejected by the republican senate"

POLITICAL POINTS

ROSSA STRIKES ROOSEVELT FOR MONEY

NEW YORK Oct 29—The Commercial Advertiser says this afternoon "The following story [illegible] the truth of which Mr Roosevelt will vouch is in circulation On last Friday O Donovan Rossa called on Roosevelt and offered to furnish him the hearty support of his paper and secret societies he controlled if Mr Roosevelt would give him two checks a small one for the cause of Ireland and a much larger one for personal use of Mr Rossa The check for the cause was to be dated after election so that Mr Roosevelt might cancel it if he were not elected The check for Mr. Rossa on the contrary was to be dated properly so it could be used at once

AN EARNEST BLAINE MAN.

SCRANTON Pa Oct 29—It was asked one of Pennsylvania's most prominent politicians whether the zeal he has shown in the management of the Blaine tour meant that he was for Blaine in 1888

"It is true" he said "I have heretofore opposed Blaine's nomination in every convention state and national for ten years but I now say that only Blaine himself can [illegible] his nomination in 1888. No private citizen in the world has ever received such an ovation as has Blaine during this tour in Pennsylvania. The workingmen have come up from their mines, and out of their factories and stood in the rain to cheer him. I say that the united republican party ought to give him a unanimous renomination and serve notice to George William Curtis and the rest of the mugwumps that as the united republican party it will stand or fall and that there is no longer any separate Blaine party within the solid republican ranks"

"What do you mean when you say that only Blaine can defeat his nomination?"

"His name is on every republican tongue, as Tilden's was on every democratic from 1876 to 1880 but yet Tilden defeated his own nomination In 1880 I mean that unless he himself declares that he will not accept it his nomination in 1888 is certain."

IS GEORGE A HUMBUG?

NEW YORK Oct 29—The Herald says editorially "We observe that some hollow person is asking the question Is George a humbug We will answer him No George is not a humbug He is a sincere earnest and intelligent man He has been misled into running for an office in which he could do nothing to further the ideas he has pushed forward in his books. The best fortune that can happen to him, and to the reforms he has at heart, will be his defeat. But he ought to be sent to congress There he would have influence to advance his ideas, and he has ability enough to make a great career as a legislator No George is not a humbug.

INDIAN AFFAIRS

Annual Report of Commissioner Atkins—An Encouraging Showing

WASHINGTON Oct 29—Commissioner of Indian affairs J D C Atkins has just completed his annual report showing the operations of the Indian bureau during the last fiscal year He begins by calling attention to unmistakable evidences of progress made by many tribes and says "The excellent temper, subordination and general tranquility which with two or three exceptions have everywhere prevailed is of itself a most auspicious omen of progress Many facts fully establish the claim that during the past year the Indian race has taken a firmer step in the march toward civilization than ever before in the same length of time

Estimates for [illegible] on the Indian service have been reduced from $7 [illegible]8 049 in 1887 to $5 [illegible] for 1888 and but for an increase of $1 [illegible] in this estimate for educational work the reduction would have been greater

He expresses his conviction that the proposition to throw open Oklahoma to white settlement would be an experiment dangerous to all concerned It is therefore recommended as a preliminary step that congress authorize the department to appoint a commission who shall visit the Cheyennes and Arapahoes Wichitas Kiowas Comanches and Apaches in Indian territory to ascertain their views with reference to the subject of removal to lands in said territory east of the 98th degree

The report says that the immediate necessity for the establishment of a United States district court within the heart of the territory of the five civilized nations, say Muskogee or Fort Gibson no longer admits of doubt

The necessity for legislation by congress upon the question of leasing Indian lands is also a subject of remark.

The commissioner refers to his instructions to agents looking to the teaching of Indians how to farm and says he intends to see to it that they are fully carried out

Of the necessity for an appropriation to defray the expense of making a census of Indians the commissioner says "I do not doubt that an accurate census would show a decrease in the number of Indians throughout the country, or at least at several agencies The outlay for taking a census is inconsiderable when compared with the great saving it would probably effect The saving in two instances—Cheyenne and Arapahoe and Pine Ridge—will amount to a large sum annually

ALMOST WITHOUT PRECEDENT.

Lieut-Gen Sheridan Disapproves the Verdict of a Courtmartial.

WASHINGTON Oct 29—The proceedings of the courtmartial convened in this city for the trial of Capt. Wm S Johnson U S A retired, has been made public. Capt Johnson was tried upon charges of duplicating his pay accounts, and the courtmartial returned a verdict of not guilty Lieut-Gen Sheridan, who reviewed the proceedings, set aside the verdict, however In his decision he says the court should have admitted evidence touching the character of the accused

The lieutenant general further says, "That the accused admitted the execution of two sets of vouchers for his pay for the same month is shown by the record and evidence also shows that he allowed those vouchers to pass beyond his control so that both were presented and paid While it appears that the accused made certain private arrangements with persons holding his vouchers yet the United States was no party thereto and was in no manner bound by them, and although there has been extenuating circumstances and the overdrawn pay was refunded it nevertheless remains that the government was exposed to fraud for which Capt. Johnson cannot be held inexcusable The proceedings finding an acquittal in the case of Capt Wm, S Johnson U S A retired, are disapproved."

The release of the accused from arrest has been ordered and the court martial dissolved This action of the lieutenant general in disapproving the finding of the court martial acquitting the accused is said to be almost without precedent in the administration of military justice, although there can be no doubt as to its legality The accused stands almost in the same position he occupied before trial although he can not be again tried for the same offence

MANNING GOES TO WORK

WASHINGTON Oct 29 Secretary Manning to-day assumed actual control of the treasury department for the first time since he was taken sick and signed all matters requiring the signature of the secretary

Secretary Manning did not write his signature on treasury letters etc but used a stamp containing a fac simile of his signature. The attorney general gave an opinion that there is no legal objection to the using of a stamp

NO FAVORS FOR SPRECKELS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—Acting Secretary Fairchild has informed the collector of customs at San Francisco that the department deems it inadvisable to grant the application of Messrs J D Spreckels & Bros for permission to retain on enclosed docks goods arriving under internal revenue transportation and export bonds until official shipment instead of sending them to bonded warehouses as required by the general regulations

WASHINGTON NOTES

Mrs. Chase and her Daughters

From an interview with ex-Gov. Sprague

The ex-governor referring to his divorced wife and with much tenderness and feeling, "Mrs Kate Chase is a woman of rare attainments She has a brilliant mind and many accomplishments She is a woman of ardent affections, and she has been munificent in bestowing upon her rare charms of person and manner She will bring up her daughters well and they will make fine women The world has been very inconsiderate in its treatment of her She is devoting her life to her children to bring them up to be good and noble women an honor to their blood and parentage and she should be allowed to follow these sentiments of maternity without intrusion of public comment or scandal Every word thus uttered she must endure, but can the children live it down Mrs Chase was always a high spirited woman accustomed to exercising her own will, and she will always do that"

How to Shorten Life

The receipt is simple. You have only to take a violent cold and neglect it. Abernethy, the great English surgeon, asked a lady who told him she only had a cough "What would you have? The plague?" No further particulars are obtainable this afternoon as the fog outside is very thick A tug has gone to her assistance

THE OFFICE BESIEGED

Shortly after the report that the Pavonia was ashore was received the office of the Cunard company was besieged by anxious inquirers, mostly merchants as the news had not at that time reached others than those upon the streets There was however little of a definite nature to be learned, except that a dispatch had been received from Plymouth about noon, from Capt Wollenden, stating that his vessel was ashore three miles northeast by north of Gurnet light, which is northeast from Plymouth and east of Duxbury A coast map shows that this calculation would place his ship directly upon High Pine ledge which is considered a very dangerous point The telegram from Capt. Wollenden also stated that the ship was all right and asked that relief be sent her A tug was at once dispatched to the scene

The weather outside is reported thick and the sea is unusually heavy The Boston Tow Boat company has sent two tugs.

TWO OPINIONS

It is stated at the Cunard office that the belief there is that the Pavonia is simply on the sand, and has a good chance of floating off at the next tide but experienced harbor men who are familiar with the locality where the vessel is supposed to be ashore say basing their opinion upon the dispatch said to have been received by the Cunard people that the steamer must have struck High Pine ledge according to bearings given in the dispatch There is thirty feet of water all about the ledge, and no beach that could be discovered by sounding in time to prevent the vessel from striking the ledge It is seen by the position of the vessel, as given in the captain's dispatch, that she was a long distance out of her course, which is explained by the fact that thick weather has prevailed for three days and consequently no observations could have been taken during that period

It is supposed the captain, as soon as he found it impossible to get the vessel off went ashore in a small boat to the nearest point, and telegraphed the situation

NO DANGER TO LIFE.

All reports indicate a very heavy surf last night and this morning about 8 o'clock when the steamer grounded and the landing of boats must have been attended with danger It is understood that the passengers will be landed and come to Boston on the Old Colony railroad to-night There is no danger whatever to life.

The Pavonia is a new boat, having been built in Glasgow four years ago, She has been running on this line a little over three years. She is 430 feet long and 47 feet wide Her value was $500 000

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Summary of Reports from the Leading Cities as Published by "Bradstreet's"

NEW YORK, Oct 29—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's while recording a somewhat improved movement in merchandise at Chicago Burlington and Davenport, Iowa and at Kansas City and New Orleans, reflect on the whole, a continuance of the late check to general trade While this appears to be of a seasonable character, after the recent period of active trading there is little in sight at the moment to suggest an immediate improvement although public confidence in its appearance in the near future is unabated From a number of points word comes that mercantile collections are made with less ease which is attributed in part to low prices of staple farm products At most cities reporting better business, cooler weather preceded it

The practical holiday in many lines at New York on Thursday cut into the total volume of transactions and is reflected in the week's bank clearings, together with about one third less trading on the stock exchange This is shown in a loss of about $125 000 000 from a total of $7[illegible]8,300,000 last week

HANGED AT LAST.

Sproule Pays the Death Penalty at Victoria.

HIS REMARKS ON THE SCAFFOLD.

He Asserts his Innocence to the Fatal Moment—His Last Request, to be Buried in American Soil, Denied.

VICTORIA, Oct. 29—Robert Evan Sproule was executed at the county jail this forenoon at 8:10 o'clock for the murder of Thomas Hammill, on the 3d of June, 1885, on the border of Kootenai lake. The public are familiar with the details of the trial and the reprieves at different times that delayed the law from taking its course. There has been a diversity of opinion as to the guilt of the murderer, he having been convicted upon circumstantial evidence.

A miner named Velnoweth, who was mining on Kootenai lake, discovered Hammill lying prostrate and almost unconscious at the entrance of his mine and he said that he had been shot and wished to die. Velnoweth called a comrade named Duncan and they endeavored to get from Hammill the name of the murderer but he was too far gone to speak, and died without giving a clue to the perpetrator of the deed. Sproule was convicted of the charge, and this morning suffered the penalty of his crime

HIS LAST NIGHT

He slept well last night and ate a hearty breakfast this morning. He was attended in his cell by Revs Fraser and Percival, as well as by United States Consul Stevens, and in response to their solicitations said he was innocent of the crime. He gave his testament and a lock of his hair to Col. Stevens, to be forwarded to his niece, Miss Ella Garlie, of Oakland

He was thoroughly composed as he descended the stairs to the jail yard, where the scaffold was erected Some twenty spectators, including for the most part authorities and members of the press had gathered in the inclosure. When Sproule preceded by the sheriff and immediately followed by the hangman and clergymen, appeared, a white cap covered his head. With his eyes he eagerly scanned the features of the group, now looking to one side and now another, as if to find the face of a friend. He ascended the scaffold like a brave man, without a tremor, and to those who had seen him early in the spring it did not seem that he had altered much.

SPROULE'S REMARKS.

The hangman, a short, thick-set fellow, with a black mask over his face, and dressed clumsily, as if to conceal his identity, followed, and Rev. Mr. Fraser the Presbyterian clergyman who has been his spiritual adviser, took up a position near him, praying silently The sight was a most impressive one and touched the hearts of all present. The condemned man said

"Can I speak to the sheriff?"

The sheriff stepped forward, more immediately in front of the condemned man's gaze, whereupon Sproule said to him, in a voice that betrayed his agitation

"You have not read the death warrant."

The sheriff answered, "It is not necessary to do so"

Sproule waited a few seconds, and then added, in tremulous tones

"Can I speak further?"

"Yes certainly," was the reply.

"My friends," continued the condemned man, speaking slowly, and uttering only a few words at a time "My friends, this a very solemn, solemn situation, to pass out of the world in such a condition And I trust that this will be an example and a warning to all who commit sin. The charge that has been preferred against me was wrong. I was not guilty of the crime of which I am accused. There were eight witnesses who came to Victoria and bore false witness against me, which led to my conviction. They know, themselves, as well as I the wrongs that they have perpetrated. I have nothing further to say, only good-bye to you all."

THE AWFUL PENALTY PAID.

The hangman then stepped in front of Sproule, and drew the rope more tightly through the ring, which moved the condemned man, over whose face the cap had not yet been completely drawn, to say in a rather piteous tone, "Don't, don't strangle me," and the noose was slightly loosened.

Rev. Mr. Fraser then commenced praying in a clear voice, the cap was drawn over Sproule's face by the head jailer, the hangman having forgotten to do it, the signal was given by the sheriff, the lever was pushed back, and the condemned man disappeared from view, falling the length of eight feet His neck was dislocated and death was instantaneous.

After the usual length of time, Dr. Helmcken pronounced life extinct, and the body was cut down placed in a coffin, and after the usual inquest, buried in the jail yard Sproule had requested that his body be buried on American soil, but this will not be allowed

PORTLAND, SATURDAY, OCT. 30, 1886.

WRONGS, NOT WIND, MAKE REVOLUTIONS.

Is it not possible to have right intentions and yet talk folly? Mr. Hewitt, who probably will be New York's next mayor, and his opponent, Mr. George, were both guilty of extravagant talk when they agreed that the French revolution was ultimately likely to repeat itself here. Hewitt said it would be the ultimate, if the ideas of George obtained in politics, and George said that unless his pet ideas do prevail the French revolution will repeat itself. The illustration was not felicitous, historically speaking, for either Hewitt or George. To repeat the horrors of the French revolution we should have to repeat the seven hundred years of social, political and industrial tyranny that preceded the French revolution, which was inspired, not by outworn creeds and moth-eaten theories, but by terrible facts. The French people went mad under awful suffering; they had been taxed into starvation by tyrants, who had fearful wars to fight; who had royal parasites and prostitutes to support, shameful vices to pay for. These tyrants and the historical confederate of tyrants, the corrupt priest, plundered the people and squandered their wealth, while they answered every complaint with the gibbet, the ax, the cord, the wheel and the Bastile. The French revolution was as justly the answer of an outraged people to tyranny as was the English revolution under Cromwell. The only difference was that while Charles the First was a tyrant by deed and by threat, he was dealing with a people that had never been so patient under outrage as the French. England suffered less personal misery, and she righted her wrongs sanely; but France went wholly mad when she once broke loose under the accumulated, unrighted, increasing wrongs and unabated cruelties of centuries. France had seen its peasant daughters defiled by every licentious aristocrat; had seen babes begging for bread the insatiate tax-gatherer had stolen; had seen its people massacred to please the priests; had seen scaffolds crowded and prisons full to bursting with people whose only crime was their claim to protection for life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. Under these terrible circumstances the French revolution came, and it ought to have come; it ought to come again under like circumstances. With all the mad excesses that marked it, with all the blood and treasure that its terrible child Bonaparte squandered, the French revolution wrought vast and enduring reforms that more than offset all it cost. It replaced the old feudal system of land tenure with a body of six million land owners, and it is that beneficial distribution that makes France to-day a land of contented peasant proprietors, who furnish the votes to-day at every election of the French republic to keep it out of the hands of communists and socialists. The French revolution will never come in America until we repeat its precedent of horrible popular misgovernment; it certainly will not come in a country where the individual ownership of property that the French revolution made for France is universal and feudal tenure unknown. Does Mr. George seriously suppose that the people of the United States will walk back of the French revolution by consenting to his cardinal principle and abolishing the individual ownership of land which the French revolution so fixedly established and multiplied among the peasant proprietors of France? No; the French revolution need not flit before the eyes either of Mr. George or Mr. Hewitt. It was born out of a state of tremendous industrial, social and political tyranny; not out of such a civilization of universal industrial, social and political freedom as blesses these United States. And Mr. Hewitt needs to refresh his memory and find out that the French revolution was not the windy child of a clump of mere "jaw-smiths," re-spinning into a new stocking the old yarn of theories that long ago lost both heel and toe.

There is a great deal too much made of Mr. George. His land theory is in principle as old as Moses, who decreed, in Leviticus, a new partition of the soil every fifty years, though the priestly and teaching class were not included in the partition, and the Hebrew tribes were prohibited from intermarrying, lest the land of one might be alienated to another. Of course, the Mosaic principle of land tenure is no more a rule for modern civilization than Mosaic polygamy is permissible under our legal or moral code. In India George's ideas of land ownership were inherited by England. There the state is proprietor of the soil and exacts from the cultivator the rental value of the land, and England has applied the proceeds of this land rent to the government; and yet India under this system of land tenure and land taxation is one of the most wretched countries in the world.

Some of the educated clergymen who support George inquire if "George is a robber because he only follows Herbert Spencer in his general principle of the right of the people to readjust its system of land tenure according to its needs." This is a mistake. George directly differs with both Spencer and Mill, for he argues that it would be unjust to the community to make any compensation to the owners of land dispossessed; while both Spencer and Mill hold the opposite opinion. All believe "the land belongs to the people" in the sense that a state may exercise the right of eminent domain, and compel private ownership to yield to public good; but our law also provides that private property shall not be taken for public purposes without just compensation. Spencer believes in a direct tax on land values, as an equitable mode of taxation; but he nowhere accepts confiscation of property in land. George is a believer in the extremity of paternal government; in a rule by autocracy and bureaucracy, while Spencer believes in individual effort; or the government which governs least. George would enlarge the state civil service, and Spencer would greatly reduce it. George would relax the rules of the police, while Spencer would have as many police as necessary to make life and property safe. The New York clerical friend of George who inquired if our government did not practically confiscate Confederate property in slaves and land is fairly answered when we say: "Yes; by the same right of self-preservation and penalty by which our government could have erected a scaffold after the war for traitors, had it not been too wise and humane to do it." There is no danger that George's ideas will ever be adopted to any serious extent, so long as a representative working man like Arthur, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is frank enough to say:

> I am directly opposed to many of Mr. George's theories, especially the one relating to the ownership of property. Quite a large number of our members own their own homes, and I am sure they would seriously object to giving them up to benefit men who don't own homes and never would if their possession depended upon their own exertions.

Any working man can see under George's scheme, which imposes all the taxes on the land and no tax on buildings, that the millionaire's palace would be equally exempt with the mechanic's cottage, which in effect would rob the poor to help the rich. The house that cost a million pays no tax, while the lot on which it stands pays no more tax than a similar lot owned by a mechanic. Of course this would result in the confiscation of all small properties and the concentration of all real estate in the hands of the most wealthy, for only the large buildings could pay the land tax. Those able to build the most expensive structures would be able to endure the tax that would mean confiscation to a poor house and land holder. It seems to us that this is a fair statement concerning Mr. George and his party. It is no answer to say, as the California paper does, that Bob Ingersoll is for Henry George because a French revolution walking hand in hand with irreligion would please him. That logic is about as weak as it would be to say that Franklin and Jefferson were sceptics because they were revolutionists, or revolutionists because they were sceptics; or for a tory Orangeman to say that Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, rebelled against England and signed the great declaration because he was a Roman Catholic, or became a Roman Catholic in consequence of having became a revolutionist. Robespierre, in the French revolution, was the most conspicuous and remorseless terrorist, and yet he eloquently repudiated atheism and defended the idea of God and immortality from first to last. Scepticism was no more peculiar to the terrorists than it was to the cynical aristocrats they slew.

THE MATTER OF REPRESENTATION.

The Benton Leader points out that the "inequality of the present representation in the legislature is shown by the fact that Linn and Marion counties have six senators and thirteen representatives, while Wasco, Umatilla, Morrow and Gilliam counties, with about the same vote, have one senator and a fraction and four representatives." Very true, and the injustice of the apportionment might be still further illustrated by reference to the counties of Multnomah, Clatsop, Umatilla et al. The last apportionment was made, we believe, in 1870, when the weight of population was in Western Oregon, chiefly in the Willamette valley counties. Since that time Astoria has grown from a mere village to a city and the county of Clatsop has increased its population from hundreds to thousands. Eastern Oregon has developed from a new region with a few mining camps and scattered stock ranches to a populous agricultural country. Multnomah county, too, has increased greatly in population through the growth of Portland. In the meantime the valley counties have made small advance in population, so that at this time an apportionment made to suit the conditions of sixteen years ago is unequal to the point of absurdity.

The inequality, constantly growing, has been maintained not only against the protest of the counties which suffer under it, but in clear disregard of the law. It is provided in the state constitution that "the number of senators and representatives shall, at the session next following an enumeration of the inhabitants by the United States or this state, be fixed by law, and apportioned among the several counties according to the number of white population in each," etc. There have been three official enumerations since the last apportionment, the first by the state in 1875, the second by the United States in 1880, and the third by the state in 1885. At each session of the legislature following these enumerations, reapportionment has been proposed, but always voted down. The counties holding the advantage have not been willing to see justice done and have not scrupled to use their disproportioned and illegitimate power to defeat every scheme proposed. Obstruction in this matter has passed the limits of decency. It would be an outrage to postpone longer a demand so clearly just and clearly authorized by law.

Under a new and just apportionment, the status in the legislature of nearly every county in the state will be changed. Multnomah, Clatsop, Columbia, Jackson, Josephine and all the counties of Eastern Oregon will gain, while Douglas and the Willamette valley counties will lose. The partisan gains and losses will about offset each other, and neither of the political parties will profit by the reapportionment. It is understood that Mr. George W. McBride, secretary of state elect, at the request of citizens of several of the counties specially interested, is preparing a bill to be submitted to the legislature, fixing the representation in accordance with the divisions of population as reported by the state census last year.

A MONUMENT TO PEACE.

The London Daily News says that the Bartholdi statue parade does not stand for any real accession of sympathy and friendship for France. To a degree this is true, but it is only saying that between nations, as between individuals, the social courtesies and amenities of life are one thing, while the business necessities are quite another. A Yankee does not want to be outdone in courtesy any more than he cares to be outwitted in cunning by any civilization. We were very glad of France's help in the revolution, and grateful for it, although we knew we never should have had a single ship or a solitary soldier, or a penny of her money if France had not been at war with England, who was so completely her mistress on the seas that France's best chance was to stab England by helping the revolted American colonies, just as Russia, if she was at war with England to-day, would strengthen the hands of an Indian mutiny. The debt of the American colonies was to royalist, not to republican France. Republican France repudiated Lafayette and Rochambeau and guillotined D'Estaing, and came very near executing Thomas Paine. Republican France quarreled with the administrations of Washington and John Adams; and the French minister Genet tried to bribe Washington's secretary, and finally had to get up and get out. Napoleon abused our commerce, but we got more out of France under him than we ever did before or since, for his necessities persuaded him to sell us Louisiana and the great West for a song, and then we let him go to the devil in his own way. We had some sharp passages with France when the Bourbons proposed to enforce the holy alliance in the South American states. Then we allowed no sentiment to keep us from standing by England's policy; and President Jackson on one occasion brought France to book with some stern words. In our great civil war France, under Napoleon Third, was a more dangerous and threatening enemy than England. If England had said "yes," Napoleon would have at once recognized the Confederacy and been their ally; and as it was France put Bazaine into Mexico, so as to be on our flank, if a good time to strike ever came. In the Franco-Prussian war our sympathies were with Germany. All the facts only show that in matters of business nations have no sentiment. England has been the ally and the enemy of about every power in Europe; so has Russia and so has France, without any reference to old sentiments or even royal marriages. In this sense the English paper is right when it says the Bartholdi statue parade does not mean any new pledge of friendship to France. The early association with France was born out of a common emergency that made us join hands to fight England, as in 1861 we would have joined hands with Russia to fight France. So far as our keenest sympathies of race, blood, religion and civilization are concerned, we are bound to England by the closest ties, and yet the Bartholdi statue was accepted as a grateful assurance of growing regard on part of the young republic of France for our older experiment. It was a high act of fine international courtesy, and was welcomed with heartiness of feeling and dignity of reception worthy of the time, the place, the people and the occasion. It adds something to that slowly gathering increment of humane and refined international sentiment which helps to make peace more sacred and wars more reluctantly undertaken among the Christian civilizations of the world. It is a victory of peace, not war; it is a monument to constitutional liberty, not the statue of a Cæsar or the column of a Napoleon.

Gov. Hill's speech at Philadelphia will attract much attention as the first notable speech from a democrat since the democrats took the government and as coming from a man who aspires to the presidency. Hill is not a man to whom the democrats of the country turn for the key note of their coming campaign, and his utterances will not have the authority which would attach to similar utterances from Mr. Cleveland or Mr. Thurman. But there can be little doubt that he has hit upon one or two points which will form common themes of democratic talk during the coming two years. From every democratic stump it will be claimed that the revival of times is an effect of democratic administration, while every failure to perform all that was promised or hoped for will be charged against the republican senate. In its general tone the speech is commonplace, and it is without the first suggestion of statesmanship. It is not what might be expected from a man of high position, seeking to commend himself for the highest office in the government.

If Bob Ingersoll dies of course the sensational Talmage will call it a "judgment," because of his heretical religious views, but unfortunately the late Ben Hill of Georgia and Grant both died of cancer, and were not only never accused of skepticism, but were always attendants upon church; and the Rev. Dr. Budington, a leading citizen of Brooklyn, perished of the same disease.

A HARD FATE.

The Bartholdi statue has been erected and placed in position under the direction of Gen. Charles P. Stone, a distinguished military and civil engineer. The work of building a proper pedestal for this enormous statue, and planting the whole structure firmly in its place, has occupied several years, and has required experience and ability of the same sort shown by Col. Casey in the erection of the Washington monument. Gen. Stone performed his work so well that he was appointed marshal of the grand parade of the 28th inst. The history of Gen. Stone is that of a man who suffered as cruelly as Fitz John Porter; worse, we think, for Fitz John Porter was not punished without a trial. Stone was graduated from West Point, high in his class, in 1845; was twice brevetted for gallantry at Molino del Rey and Chepultepec, during the Mexican war; resigned his commission in 1856, and was living in Washington when the war broke out in 1861. So highly was Stone esteemed for his ability that he was in May appointed colonel of the Fourteenth infantry; commanded a brigade under Patterson in the Bull Run campaign, and was in August, 1861, promoted to the command of a division on the Upper Potomac, in the army of McClellan. The troops engaged in the unfortunate battle of Ball's Bluff, October 21, '61, belonged to his division, and acted under orders received by him from Gen. McClellan. The Union force, about 2000 strong, lost about 1000 killed, wounded and captured, and among the killed was the eloquent Col. E. D. Baker, then senator from Oregon, who commanded the troops. Gen. Stone's responsibility for the disaster began to be discussed in congress, and reports unfavorable to his loyalty began to be circulated. Finally on February 9, '62, Stone was arrested by order of Gen. McClellan, and imprisoned in Fort Lafayette, where for a considerable time no person was allowed to see him. No official charges were preferred against him, nor was a court martial ordered; but the newspaper story was that he was accused of inefficiency at Ball's Bluff, of holding improper intercourse with the enemy, and other forms of official unfaithfulness. He appealed in vain to McClellan, whom he had known at West Point and in the Mexican war, for a trial, but got no satisfaction, until finally in August, 1862, after McClellan's star began to pale, Stone's friends in congress from his native state of Massachusetts, succeeded in getting him released, and he was ordered to Washington. He applied in vain for assignment to duty, until finally he was sent to the Department of the Gulf, when Banks succeeded Butler, and there Stone served on Banks's staff until he was wounded, April 8, '64, trying to rally the troops from the rout of the battle of Sabine Crossroads. From this time forward he remained in retirement until the close of the war, when he made persistent effort to get redress, to find out who was responsible for his imprisonment, and what charges existed against him.

He could find nothing at the war department except what he already knew, that his arrest was made on the order of McClellan. Of McClellan he could obtain no satisfaction, conspicuous as that officer was to the day of his death for his efforts to right Porter. Finally Stone resigned from the army and entered the service of the khedive of Egypt, where he distinguished himself, and, returning to this country, has risen to high repute in his profession. Among the officers who were stationed at Fort Lafayette during Stone's confinement, from February to August, 1862, was Lieut. E. M. Coates, of the Twelfth infantry, now Capt. Coates, of the Fourth infantry, and at present in command of the military post at Cœur d'Alene. Meeting Stone in New York several years after the war, Coates asked him what conclusion he reached to explain McClellan's arrest and imprisonment of him, and persistent deafness to his request for a trial. Stone answered that he was forced to the conclusion that McClellan deliberately made a scape-goat of him for Ball's Bluff and refused him any chance for a hearing because he knew that an investigation would vindicate Stone and disgrace McClellan. Suppose Porter, after second Bull Run, had been arrested, sent to Fort Lafayette by Stanton, kept there six months, without charges; without trial; finally released; shelved, then sent to an obscure command, and ever afterward refused any sort of information or satisfaction, what would McClellan have said of Stanton? And yet McClellan did this to Stone, an older officer than Porter, his equal in rank in the regular army at the time of his arrest, and his equal in professional scholarship and military performance up to the time of his arrest. Stone, but for his arrest, would have had a chance to display his abilities in the army of the Potomac at the head of a division, but McClellan blasted his career at its outset, so that when finally released he always remained under a cloud. Ben Butler's thrusting the late Rev. H. N. Hudson, an excellent clergyman and fine Shakespearean scholar, into the "bull pen" at City Point and keeping him there without trial for a number of weeks was not more outrageous than the treatment that McClellan inflicted on Stone. No wonder such a nature was suspected of a deliberate desire to sacrifice Pope's army to vindicate himself.

Gov. Hill seems to regard Mr. Blaine as the republican party. The same mistake is made by some of Mr. Blaine's friends.

A. B. G. Cranston, floor walker for Stern Brothers, 32 West Twenty-third street, New York, together with his wife, was troubled with malaria for upwards of two years. They were both entirely cured by taking one or two Brandreth's Pills every night for three months, without interfering with their labor or household duties.

A CARD TO WOMEN VOTERS—THE COMmittee of the Knights of Labor in the counties of Clarke, Cowlitz, and Skamania, W. T., request the women voters of the Territory to support Hon. William A. Newell for Delegate to Congress. It cannot be denied that they are more indebted to him than to any other man for the privilege which they enjoy of going to the polls and depositing their ballots. It cannot be denied that ex-Governor Newell has always been foremost in the battles of right against wrong, of justice against injustice, and of civilization against barbarism. It cannot be denied that he would make an able and a faithful Delegate. These and other considerations which might be suggested entitle him, as we think, to the support of the women voters of the Territory of Washington at the coming election.
Committee of the Peoples Party in Clarke, Cowlitz and Skamania Counties. 2-ot

THE EAST SIDE.

SUPPOSED BURGLARS EXAMINED.

Wm. King, who was arrested in Portland on Thursday afternoon on suspicion of being one of the parties engaged in the burglary at M. A. [illegible] stock's tailoring establishment in this city on Tuesday night last, and Frank Pearce, who was arrested in this city Thursday night, supposed to be another of the guilty parties, were examined before Justice Bullock yesterday afternoon. The cases were taken up separately, King being examined first. A large number of witnesses were examined on behalf of the state, and very strong circumstantial evidence was obtained pointing to the guilt of the defendant. The defendant, who was sworn and testified in his own behalf, contradicted himself several times, and failing to bring any other testimony than his own the court deemed the evidence in behalf of the state sufficiently strong to justify it in holding him to appear before the grand jury and fixed his bail at $1000. This he was unable to furnish and he was committed to the county jail.

Pearce was then brought into court and C. [illegible] Taylor appeared as his counsel. Several witnesses were sworn and testified in behalf of the state and one of them seemed quite positive that he had seen the defendant on the night of the burglary going up Fifth street about half past 12 o'clock, with a large bundle under his arm. The defendant in making his statement denied in the most positive manner that he took the direction stated by the witness, and also that he carried a bundle or anything else under his arm, and told a straightforward story; after hearing which the deputy prosecuting attorney stated he was of the opinion that the defendant had spoken the truth and that the witness for the state had been mistaken, and thought the defendant should not be held to appear, and the court being of the same opinion he was released from custody.

NOTES.

Mr. J. T. Stewart of this city has been appointed by Gov. Moody a notary public for Oregon.

Company F, O. S. M., intend giving a grand ball on the evening of Thanksgiving day, to take place at their armory.

The remains of George Schell, who was killed on Thursday morning by falling from a loaded wood wagon, were taken to Silverton on yesterday morning's train, accompanied by his mother and brother.

Recently W. P. Bennett brought suit in Justice Bullock's court against George Flavel, to recover $30. Plaintiff alleged that during the month of November, 1882, Joseph Buchtel, as agent for Flavel, hired him to deepen, wall up and clean out a well. Bennett performed the work and presented his bill to Buchtel, who refused to pay it, on the ground that Bennett agreed that when he had finished there would be plenty of water in the well, and he failed to increase the flow of water. Yesterday the case was tried and taken under advisement.

GOLDENDALE NOTES.

GOLDENDALE, W. T., Oct. 26.

Mr. J. Lorquet is at present in Portland.

Dr. Stowell was thrown from his buggy to-day and received some slight injuries.

Mr. S. Sichel returned on last Saturday after a six months' absence, having visited his old home in Germany.

Politics are booming here, and from what the respective candidates say, both tickets will receive handsome majorities.

District court, Judge Turner presiding, is now in session. The docket is very small. An Indian, "Cultus George," is being tried for committing rape on an Indian child only 3 years old.

We are having fine weather, in fact too pleasant. A soaking rain would do much good. Farmers want to plow and put in their fall crops. The grass on the range needs rain, stock generally being poor.

THE CODLIN MOTH AND OTHER ORCHARD PESTS.

At the quarterly meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association, held the first week in October in this city, E. W. Allen, J. H. Lambert, Seth Lewelling, J. H. Settlemier and Dr. O. P. S. Plummer were appointed a committee to consider what action is necessary to be taken to rid the orchards of the codlin moths and other pests that are beginning to infest them. In order to get all of the information possible upon the subject, the committee desire to hear from all who are troubled with the codlin moth or any other orchard pest, and what means has been used to destroy them, and such other information as will aid the committee in determining what needs to be done in the matter. All correspondence should be addressed to E. W. Allen, No. 469 Sixth street, Portland.

THE STAGE.

NEW MARKET THEATER.—Considering that last night was the fifth performance of "Among the Pines," a good house greeted Miss Woodthorpe, which is very flattering for her and her support. To-night will be the last time of "Among the Pines." On Monday evening Miss Woodthorpe will appear in an entirely different character from her "Butterfly." Manager Howe having re-engaged her for three nights to play her great eastern success of "May Blossom." Miss Woodthorpe and her company are suited for the beautiful drama and a satisfactory performance will be given. All should remember the doll matinee at 2 P. M. to-day, when every child will receive a doll.

A CONTRADICTION.

Mr. J. J. Byrne, general passenger and ticket agent of the O. R. & N. Co., writes to THE OREGONIAN under date of the 29th: "The item in today's local column regarding privileges accorded to Canadian Pacific passengers on this company's sound steamers, is not correct. Passengers who hold second-class tickets must pay the difference between first and second-class rates or travel on deck.

Plummer were appointed a committee to consider what action is necessary to be taken to rid the orchards of the codlin moths and other pests that are beginning to infest them. In order to get all of the information possible upon the subject the committee desire to hear from all who are troubled with the codlin moth or any other orchard pest and what means has been used to destroy them and such other information as will aid the committee in determining what needs to be done in the matter. All correspondence should be addressed to E. W. Allen, No. [illegible] street, Portland.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

FATAL FALL.—Josiah Lowe, a tinsmith about 70 years of age, who has been in the employ of Goldsmith & Loewenberg for many years, met with an accident yesterday, which resulted in his death a short time after. He came back to the store from his dinner about 1 o'clock and took the elevator to the third story. After the elevator had stopped the man who was in charge of it gave the usual signal from below to ascertain if all was clear and the elevator ready to come down. Receiving no answer he repeated the signal twice and still receiving no answering signal he naturally supposed that Mr. Lowe had left the elevator and gone to his work so the elevator was started down to the lower floor. Soon after Lowe was discovered lying on the second floor in an insensible condition. He had fallen and struck heavily on the side of his face and head. A physician was hastily summoned and the injured man shortly afterward removed to his home, No. 80 North [illegible] Park street, where he died within an hour. Just how the unfortunate man happened to receive the fatal injuries is unknown. No one was near and consequently no one witnessed the fall. He must have stepped from the platform on to the third floor, and losing his balance fell back on the descending elevator and from there again fallen to the second floor while the elevator was midway. There appears to be no one to blame for the accident. Coroner Denton was notified but he did not, under the circumstances, consider it necessary to hold an inquest. Deceased leaves a wife and several grown children.

A SALE FOR TAXES.—The case of Marx vs. Hanthorn argued in the U. S. circuit court Friday is of considerable interest to many persons as it is only one of a number of the same kind. The facts in the case are about as follows: J. O. Hanthorn of Astoria owned a valuable piece of property in this city, a house and lot which were rented by an agent here, who was to collect rent, pay taxes, etc. From some cause one year's taxes were not paid and the property was advertised as delinquent and finally sold by the sheriff to pay the taxes amounting to about $50. Mr. Hanthorn it appears never had any intimation of the fact and paid taxes on the property after it had been sold. The first thing he knew a suit was brought against his tenants to eject them from the premises, the time allowed by law for redemption having expired. The property was purchased by one [illegible] who transferred it to Marx. This case is an illustration of the beauties of our present system of collecting taxes. A man so well known as Mr. Hanthorn is never notified of the fact that property worth several thousand dollars is to be sold for taxes amounting to less than $50. Probably the publication of the delinquent tax list is legal notice in the matter but it seems as if the law might provide for some other notification, especially where the party is well known. If the agent was at fault in this matter he should be held responsible.

ANOTHER FATAL HUNTING ACCIDENT.—[illegible] Wednesday afternoon Henry Hawkins, a young man of 18 years who lived with his parents at Scappoose bay, Columbia county, was accidentally shot and killed. Hawkins and a young man [illegible] went out from Portland went out shooting ducks on Widgeon lake, on [illegible] place about [illegible] miles from St. Helens. A flock of ducks passed over and both Hawkins and his companion crouched down on the ground with the understanding that they were to shoot simultaneously. B[illegible] tapped their guns. Hawkins went off and, thinking his companion's gun had exploded, he rose. The other gun [illegible] fire, however, but just as Hawkins was rising it discharged, its load and Hawkins received the full charge in the head, his brain being blown out. His companion, whose name could not be learned, became so excited after reporting the accident that he could hardly tell where it occurred, but he finally managed to locate [illegible] and Hawkins's body was found.

WILL SERVE THE STATE TWO YEARS.—Sheriff Herbert of Wasco county arrived here yesterday having in custody John Fagan, en route to the penitentiary to serve a sentence of two years for larceny. It appears that some time since at The Dalles, Fagan was drinking with a man in a barroom when he stuck his hand into the man's pocket and stole $6. The man caught Fagan in the act of robbing him and proceeded to administer him a sound thumping. On finishing with this part of the programme he turned Fagan over to the authorities. The curtain was then rung up on act 2, which was a court scene, and wound up with Fagan's conviction. Act 3 is now being played and as above stated depicts Fagan en route [illegible] interval of two years occurs between this and the next act. [illegible] it is supposed, but an actual one. During this interval Fagan will be engaged smoking cigars in the green room, but will more likely put in his time in posting himself as to how and [illegible] for a dry [illegible]

OPENING OF EVENING CLASSES.—An excellent opportunity for self-improvement during the long winter evenings is offered by the Young Men's Christian association. Classes taught by the best instructors of the city are now being formed in arithmetic, German, vocal music, elocution, stenography, telegraphy and English for foreigners. An entertainment largely attended was given last night in Y. M. C. A. hall opening with a selection by an amateur orchestra, followed by selections by Miss Kate S. Downs and a song by Mr. A. Dobbins, accompanied by R. W. Hoyt. The selections were all excellently rendered and received hearty encores. The instructors of the various classes gave outlines of the work to be undertaken and cards were passed among the audience from which it was ascertained that 31 entered the class in vocal music, 12 stenography, 4 German advanced, 11 German elementary, 3 elocution, 15 arithmetic, 8 telegraphy, [illegible] This is a successful showing as many who intend to enter were not present.

INSULTING HOODLUMS.—Two ladies, while returning home at 9:30 last evening from calling on a neighbor were approached in an insulting and threatening manner, near the Failing school, by two men. They appealed for protection to a gentleman passing, who spoke to the two ruffians who started off down a side street on a run. There are a large number of roughs and toughs in the city as is evidenced by their numerous exploits in the petty larceny and house robbing line. These fellows will do well to confine themselves to petty pilfering if they think they must live and they have no desire to work, but they had better not if they set any value on their worthless carcasses indulge themselves in the pastime of insulting ladies in the streets of Portland. Ladies have always been able to pass along the streets of this city at any time they deemed proper without molestation and our citizens will use scant ceremony with any scalawags who undertake to institute a new order of things in this matter.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.—Mrs. M. J. Cutler died at Salem yesterday after a long and painful illness and will be buried at Oregon City this morning, upon the arrival of the Albany express train from Salem, Rev. J. W. Sellwood of First [illegible] Portland, officiating. Mrs. Cutler was the eldest child of Rice and James Dunbar, and with them came to Oregon in 1845, where she has resided continuously ever since. She was married to Daniel H. Good in 184[illegible], he passing away at Oregon City in 18[illegible]. She leaves one son and five daughters to mourn her loss. She has several brothers and sisters living, among whom are Hons. W. R. and R. O. Dunbar of Goldendale, W. T.

WHIPPED THE WRONG MAN.—John Kennedy, a teamster, was up in police court yesterday on a charge of assault and battery. Thursday night at 11 o'clock, Kennedy was seen loafing up against a building on First street, corner of [illegible], waiting to slug some fellow against whom he had a grudge. Tom O'Keefe and Fred Binder happened along and Kennedy went for and knocked them both out. After he had done so Kennedy said he had made a mistake and had thumped the wrong man and was sorry. Binder and O'Keefe were also sorry, but that didn't help matters any and [illegible] James arrested Kennedy and on a trial of the case a fine of $[illegible] was imposed.

SUIT FOR MUSICIANS' SALARIES.—The only case on trial before Judge Shattuck and a jury yesterday was that of Harry [illegible] and other musicians and members of the last Casino Opera House company to recover back salaries, amounting in total to some $[illegible]. [illegible] Weber, whom plaintiffs claim is responsible to them, is the defendant in the action. He claims the Casino Opera House company was a corporation and responsible to plaintiffs and at the time the assessment was made by the company, plaintiffs' claims were included in the list, etc. The trial of the case will be continued to-day.

DENIAL FROM CANADIAN AGENCY.—The article that appeared in the Evening Telegram of the 28th inst., relative to holders of second class tickets on the Canadian Pacific railway being allowed first class privileges on the Sound steamers of the O. R. & N. company, Mr. [illegible] Dixon, passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific railway, says is strictly correct notwithstanding the card published by J. J. Byrne of the O. R. & N. Co. All passengers holding second-class tickets over the Canadian Pacific railway will be entitled to first class accommodations on the Puget sound steamers of the O. R. & N. Co.

FINE PHOTOGRAPHY.—THE OREGONIAN is in receipt of a number of photographs of the Three Sisters and of views along the McKenzie, taken by Clarence L. Winter of Eugene. Mr. Winter must have carried his camera clear to the summit, for he shows magnificent scenes of crevasses, glaciers, a snow gallery and a snow bridge over the [illegible] Several men crossing the bridge give it added charm. No finer photographs of mountain scenery have ever been shown in this state than those by Mr. Winter, a young man who loves photography for its art, not its gold.

FROM THE CŒUR D'ALENES.—Ex-Councilman Joseph Smith returned yesterday from a three weeks' visit to the Cœur d'Alene mines. He says he cannot express the favorable impression made on him by the mines of the Murray district. Their richness and extent far exceeded his expectations and he thinks no one can form a correct idea of them without seeing them. Mr. Smith saw Dick Powers, who was working at mining and was much improved in health.

THE LOST FOUND.—Mr. Job Connor of Polk county, the U. S. grand juror who was reported as missing since Monday, is now in the hands of friends. It seems that he started west on foot Monday evening and wandered that night, the next day and the next night, halting at the residence of a Mr. Burnell in Washington county. He is thought to be laboring under a temporary aberration of mind. His friends were notified, and took him home.

USED STAMPS TWICE.—Deputy U. S. Marshal Marquam is on his way home from Wilderville, Josephine county, where he went a day or two since armed with a bench warrant to arrest Miss S. Dean, who has been indicted by the U. S. grand jury for using or attempting to use postage stamps a second time. Mr. Marquam succeeded in capturing his man and is bringing him in.

"[illegible]"

Whenever I read your advertisements," says a jolly, good natured man on the eastside road, a few days ago, "and I came to town to see if you can fit me, as you claim you can do."
Well, to describe this man he is a regular whale, chest 52 inches, sleeves 31 inches, pants 50, waist 50 inches length—well, in took us just about twenty minutes, and he was rigged out complete for $22 with a suit to fit him, and a more surprised man never visited Portland.
We mean just what we say—we can fit anybody, we don't care for his size, be he large or small.

Our Store is crowded every day, because we don't want high prices.

LIVE AND LET LIVE!
Is the way we do it.

OPEN YOUR EARS!
We want to holler into them that we are selling Men's All-Wool Cassimere Suits at $13, $14, $15 and $16. We mean sheep's wool, none of your down south Alabama wool (cotton), but the real article, and we guarantee you a fit.

COLD NIGHT, YOU SAY.
Get one of our Overcoats and you'll be warm; only cost you, say from $10 to $20. Why we have over a thousand Overcoats in stock, and all for sale, all fresh and New Style goods. We are sure to please you.

One of the Tricks of the Trade,
As played by two or three houses here, is to mark out goods less than cost in their windows, to catch the unwary, and when they have their victim in their toils, oh Lordy! how they do fleece him. Talk about "bunko sharps," they can't be compared. Wonder, kind reader, have you ever been in their toils. We know plenty that have. We have

ONE PRICE IN PLAIN FIGURES
To everybody rich or poor. All are the same to us. We are here to sell clothing (not rags) and we give you

GOOD, HONEST VALUE,
Every time. We will mail, free of charge, samples of Suits and Overcoats, but when you order tell us what you want, if a sack or frock suit, or overcoat, or what you want. Write your address plainly, and you will be treated the same as if you were here.

Try Sol Bono.

Try, for all others seems to be the great aim of some. To custom shoemakers' goods. In the shoe trade it is claimed, as in others. Hanan & Son are constantly trying to improve their shoe, showing that its present widespread popularity comes from its being the very best that skill and industry can produce. Escaped his Attention Perhaps.

New York World.

Did not Mr. Blaine learn in his hasty passage through New York that three "free trade" candidates for mayor are in nomination here? Has he not heard that his beautiful tariff has enabled the coal barons of Pennsylvania to raise their prices four times without increasing the miners' wages? And has he forgotten that his party proposed a 20 per cent reduction in duties that has not yet been effected, and on the platform upon which he ran for president and was beaten, as he may remember, "pledged itself" to "correct the inequalities of the tariff" as a means of "preventing the surplus?" The people remember it if he does not.

FARM NOTES.

The winter range along Snake river is in excellent condition. The grass is not as long as last year, but what is lacking in quantity is more than made up in quality.

Centervillian: H. B. A. Hales raised on his land near Centerville about 3000 bushels of corn which he will feed to sixty head of steers and 100 head of hogs. This is business. Mr. H does is doing what every farmer in Umatilla county should do.

Enterprise: So far during 1886 Arlington has made the following shipments: Wool, 3,462,300 pounds; wheat, 39,000 bushels; sheep, 11,743 head; horses, 340; cattle, 874. During the same time 483 carloads of freight have been received by the business men, who have merited the lucrative trade they are enjoying.

The Yakima (W. T.) Farmer says Hiram Carpenter has harvested twenty-eight tons of hops from twenty-eight acres. The yield is worth $700 per acre, or $19,600 for the entire crop.

Blue stem wheat has been introduced into Walla Walla valley. It is said to outyield any of the varieties of club. Some say that it will yield ten bushels to the acre more than the little club. This, perhaps, is saying too much, but we believe it will yield something more. It would be a good thing to have introduced here. It is a very plump grain and commands a higher price.

NEWSPAPER TALK.

The Asotin (Asotin county) Sentinel, Charles M. Poor, editor, closed the third year of its existence on October 15.

It is reported that the Colville (Stevens county) Reporter has been compelled to suspend, as the man who held a mortgage foreclosed it because the Reporter contained an article which did not suit him.

The first number of the Fossil Journal has been received. It is published by Sloan P. Shutt, at Fossil, Gilliam county. It presents a neat appearance, and is well patronized by the business men of the town.

On the 11th inst. No. 1 of vol. 1 of the Spokane Falls News was issued. It is a six-column, four-page journal, neat in appearance, and is published by the Daily News company, consisting of W. Edwards and Geo. B. Epperson. The paper is advocating Voorhees.

The President's Farm.

Washington Correspondence of New York Herald.

Since the purchase of "Red Top" the president has become very much interested in agricultural matters. He intends to sow the twenty acres about "Red Top" in clover. An orchard of New York pippin trees is to be added to the place. Grapevine arbors are to adorn the grounds to the west of the house, and several cows of fine breed and other blooded stock are to be stabled on the premises. He expects to do some of the granger work himself this fall and next spring, if for exercise only. He has been advised that a man of his full habit doing so much mental work needs something more invigorating than riding out for an hour or two.

A few days ago, while enjoying the beautiful view from the upper porch of "Red Top," Col. Wilson remarked to the president that he thought he was very sensible in building the porch so wide, for it gave to the old house the appearance of larger proportions than it would otherwise have.

"That is the way an engineer officer looks at it," said Mr. Cleveland. "The ladies take a different view of its utility."

"Ah! And what do they say?" asked Col. Wilson.

"I thought I overheard them say the other day that it would be a splendid place to push around a baby carriage," and Mr. Cleveland looked at Col. Wilson as though he thought they were right.

Scavengers of Importance.

Next to the bowels, or rather in conjunction with them, the kidneys and bladder are the most important scavengers of the system. They purify the blood and carry off its refuse, preventing rheumatism, dropsy, Bright's disease and diabetes by their active cleansing work. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, when the kidneys evince a tendency to relax the activity of their important function, renews it, and thus averts renal maladies, the most difficult to cope with, and which superinduce a frightful loss of bodily tissue, stamina and flesh. When the renal organs exhibit the slightest symptoms of inaction, they should at once receive the needful stimulus from this safest, surest and pleasantest of diuretics. Chills and fever, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint and debility are also remedied by it.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

INDIGESTION.

I have been suffering for over two years with Dyspepsia, and for the last year could not take a drink of cold water nor eat any meal without suffering. My life was a misery, and after many home physicians failed to benefit me, they advised removal to Colorado or California in the hope of relief. I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator, which I did, and am now taking the second bottle, and words cannot express the relief I feel. My appetite is very good and I digest everything thoroughly. Where I used to have a passage every four or five days, I now have regular daily evacuations of the bowels. I sleep well now, and I used to be very restless. I am fleshing up. Good, strong food and Simmons Liver Regulator have done it all. I write this in the hope of benefiting some one who has suffered as I did. I will take oath to these statements if desired. E. S. BALLOU, Syracuse, Neb

Cancer of the Tongue.

My wife, some three or four years ago, was troubled with an ulcer on the side of her tongue near the throat. The pain was incessant, causing loss of sleep and producing great nervous prostration. Accompanying this trouble was rheumatism. It had passed from the shoulders and centered in the wrist of one hand, she almost losing the use of it. Between the suffering of the two, life had grown burdensome. By the use of a half dozen small sized bottles of Swift's Specific, she was entirely relieved and restored to health. This was three years ago, and there has been no return of the disease.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following is from the Hon. N. Pierce, well known in Eastern Oregon:

A CARD.

MILTON, Or., Sept. 25, 1885.

A sense of duty to those who may be similarly afflicted prompts me to make the following statement: My son Henry, aged 14 years, was almost entirely deaf since quite a child, and having failed to obtain any help for him, I applied to Dr. H. J. Smith, of San Francisco, who pronounced his case one of Catarrhal Deafness, and said he could cure his Catarrh and improve his hearing at least one-half. He has only been under the doctor's treatment (at home) a short time, and I find his hearing completely restored and Catarrh nearly cured.
N. PIERCE.

MILTON, Or., Sept. 29, 1886.—I take pleasure in stating that, after the lapse of one year, I find my boy, Henry's, condition better than stated in my testimonial of one year ago.
N. PIERCE.

Mr. J. A. RICHARDSON, Justice of the Peace, Stone, Or., who suffered from tubercular deposit on the lungs, with asthma, resulting from neglected catarrh, states: "When I commenced your treatment I was scarcely able to walk, and in five days I was able to walk two miles, and now enjoy fair health, and am confident that I should have been even better, had I not neglected your treatment as soon as I got better."

To those suffering from BLOOD, NERVOUS or other Chronic Diseases, we would say that it is not our custom to resort to a tedious effusion of trite matter, to excite your fears in order to deplete your purse, but will simply say that we have made a thorough study of this class of diseases, and can cure you in the speediest and most scientific manner possible.
